Jeffrey Louden

SVP, Engineering at The Atlantic

Washington, D.C.
jeff@jefflouden.com
jefflouden.com

I build teams and things: engineering organizations that are diverse, inclusive, and kind, and that ship high-quality products quickly.

WORK

2025 – Now
The Atlantic
SVP, Engineering (2026 – Now) · VP, Engineering (2025 – 2026)
Oversee all of Engineering and QA.

2022 – Now
Existential Engineering Company
Founder
Built Aureo, a studio gear and plugin catalog, and the open-source catalog behind it.

2021 – 2022
TIME
VP, Software Engineering
Led TIME's 12-person core software engineering team and its technical strategy.

2020
Lyft
Engineering Manager II, Memberships
Led the 10-person team behind Lyft Pink, Lyft's subscription. Started its core platform team; led Bikes, Scooters and Rentals integrations and Grubhub+ and Chase partnerships.

2015 – 2020
The New York Times
Director of Technology, NYT Cooking
Led NYT Cooking's 25-person team and built the paywall behind a $20M subscription. Two Webbys and a 2019 James Beard Award; founding member of the Women in Tech task force.

2014 – 2015
Google
Senior Web Developer

2013
The New Yorker
Director of Engineering

2011 – 2013
Obama for America
Lead Software Engineer, BarackObama.com

EDUCATION

2005 – 2007
Berklee Online
Certificate, Music Technology and Production

2005 – 2007
SAE Institute Nashville

2001 – 2005
Florida State University
B.S., Information Studies